

Internal Call for Workshops 2016-2017

- The institute is soliciting collaborative workshop proposals that provide future perspectives for the development or enhancement of ICM-based research projects. The institute will support workshops with a focus on cutting-edge technologies and/or on bridging the gap between basic and clinical research.
- The applicants are encouraged to invite international scientists and technical specialists whose contribution to the selected field is substantial and whose complementary domain of expertise might pave the way to potential collaboration.
- The selection committee will also consider proposals for technical training workshops that promote the platforms of the institute and open them to external collaboration.
- Three workshops could be funded per year
- A budget of up to 10 000€ will be allocated per workshop

To apply send:

- A statement not exceeding 2 pages describing the workshop's preliminary program, the provisional location, the expected number of attendees, the communication strategy to promote the workshop and the relevance and potential contribution to ICM research.
- A budget description with a business model if the proposal needs supplementary funding (such as through an external collaboration, or paid registration)
- The logistical aspects, specifying the daily organization, already identified staff etc...?

Send your application to scientific.affairs@icm-institute.org

Applications and supporting documents are due: 15th October 2016
